The Transition to Democracy

The new history of South Africa is largely defined by its transition from apartheid to a democratic society. This pivotal moment, which took place in the early 1990s, was marked by several significant events.

1. The End of Apartheid

- F.W. de Klerk's Reforms: In 1990, President F.W. de Klerk announced the unbanning of anti-apartheid organizations, including the African National Congress (ANC), and released Nelson Mandela from prison after 27 years. This was a significant step towards dismantling the apartheid regime.
