Overview of the AP Psychology Exam

The AP Psychology exam assesses students' understanding of psychological concepts, theories, and research methods. The exam is divided into two main sections: multiple-choice questions and free-response questions. Typically, the multiple-choice section consists of 100 questions and accounts for 66.6% of the overall score. The free-response section includes two questions and makes up the remaining 33.3% of the score. This structure is designed to evaluate a student's recall, analytical skills, and ability to apply psychological principles to various scenarios.

Exam Format and Timing

The total duration of the AP Psychology exam is approximately two hours. Students have 70 minutes to answer the multiple-choice questions and 50 minutes for the free-response section. Understanding the time constraints and the number of questions in each section is crucial for effective exam preparation. Sample AP psychology exams replicate this timing and structure, enabling students to practice pacing themselves adequately.

Scoring and Performance Metrics

Scores on the AP Psychology exam range from 1 to 5, with 5 being the highest possible score. The College Board uses a composite score derived from both sections to determine the final grade. Sample exams often provide scoring guidelines and rubrics, helping students understand the scoring criteria and set realistic performance goals.
